Graduate

Graduate Programs in Communication Studies
The graduate program leads to a Master of Arts in Communication Studies. Graduate coursework, as well as a required thesis for the Plan A master’s, enables students to develop expertise in one or a combination of three areas of emphasis:

1. media and visual culture;
2. relational and organizational communication; and/or
3. rhetoric and civic engagement.

In each of these areas, students select course work from among the following topics:

1. contemporary issues in media, media theories, media audiences, media texts, and media industries;
2. communication theories, communication and diversity, interpersonal theories, and discourse and organization; or
3. public address, rhetoric and public affairs, rhetorical theory, rhetorical criticism, rhetoric of everyday life, and feminist theory.

The Plan B master’s provides a Deliberative Practices Specialization with coursework in deliberative theory and practice, a practicum, and an Independent Study serving as the culminating report in lieu of a thesis.

Students interested in graduate work should refer to the Graduate and Professional Bulletin and the Department of Communication Studies (http://communicationstudies.colostate.edu).
