

MASTER OF SCIENCE IN ENVIRONMENTAL HEALTH, PLAN B, INDUSTRIAL HYGIENE SPECIALIZATION

Industrial Hygiene (IH) is the science and art devoted to the anticipation, recognition, evaluation, prevention, and control of workplace contaminants and stressors that may cause sickness, injury, impaired health, or impaired well-being among workers or citizens of the community.

Learn more about the Industrial Hygiene Specialization on the Department of Environmental and Radiological Health Sciences website. (<https://vetmedbiosci.colostate.edu/degree-programs/graduate/ms-environmental-health/industrial-hygiene/>)