CSU is committed to providing an environment that respects the dignity and worth of every member of its community. CSU strives to create and maintain a work and study environment that is fair, inclusive, and responsible so that each member of the CSU community is treated with dignity and respect and is rewarded for relevant considerations such as ability and performance. CSU has adopted a comprehensive policy (http://oeo.colostate.edu/discrimination-harassment-sexual-harassment-sexual-misconduct-domestic-violence-dating-violence-stalking-and-retaliation-policy) to define the types of conduct that are prohibited as a means of achieving these goals and to prevent harm arising from discrimination, harassment, sexual harassment, sexual misconduct, domestic violence, dating violence, stalking, and retaliation. All students, faculty, staff, and other persons having business with CSU are expected to know and follow this policy.

Details regarding what is involved in bringing a complaint and the procedures for informal and formal resolution are available from the Office of Support and Safety Assessment (http://www.supportandsafety.colostate.edu) for student-to-student behavior and the Office of Equal Opportunity (http://oeo.colostate.edu) for matters involving non-students such as faculty, staff, or visitors and matters involving a student and non-student person.
